SOUTH HAVEN — Fire late Saturday night swept Michigan Beach Resort, a plush summer recreation facility on South Haven's north side, destroying three large buildings. Losses were estimated at over $200,000. The blaze, fanned by 35 to 40 mile per hour winds off Lake Michigan, jumped from its origin in a four-story rooming house facing the lake, to two other nearby buildings, destroying them all within a three-hour period.

HOMES ENDANGERED
Residents were evacuated from their homes along North Shore drive as the fire reached out from the burning resort complex toward the houses and strong winds sent large sparks and burning embers dropping for hundreds of feet.

Despite the high winds, freezing temperatures and snow flurries, firemen battled the fires without injury. South Haven fire fighters were assisted by firemen from Bangor and Covert.

Cause of the fire remained a mystery today although firemen speculated that it would have started from faulty electrical wiring or was started by vandals. Electricity had been left on although the buildings were closed for the winter.

Owner of the business, Martin Eichenbaum, said that it was not uncommon for the buildings to be broken into during the winter months and the beds slept in.

The question of arson arose when fire broke out in one of the buildings in the basement, after firemen had worked hard at trying to protect the structure from flying sparks and heat from the burning rooming house.

City police, who were among the first to arrive at the scene, said they looked for tracks in the new snow that might have led them to suspect arson, but found no evidence that the buildings had been entered.

Eichenbaum said he had owned and operated the resort for the past 37 years and had most of the 60 rooms occupied every season. He said he still carried a mortgage on the resort and that the loss was partially insured.

According to Eichenbaum, a lot of personal and valuable belongings burned up in the buildings. "There were things that you couldn't replace for any money," he said.

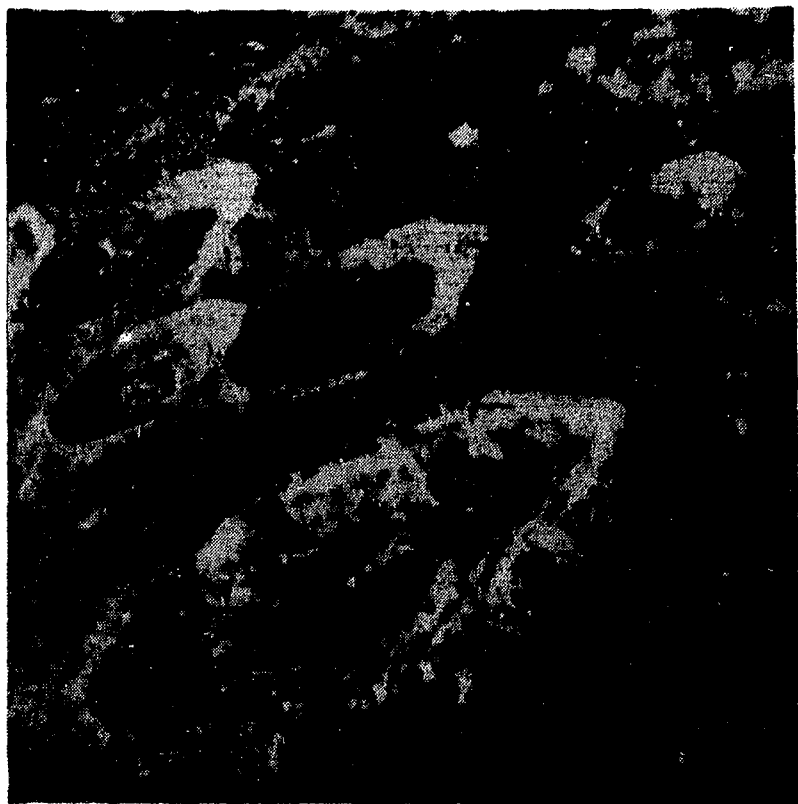

Eichenbaum praised firemen for saving his home, and the homes of his neighbors, located right across the street from the fire.

URNS IN ALARM

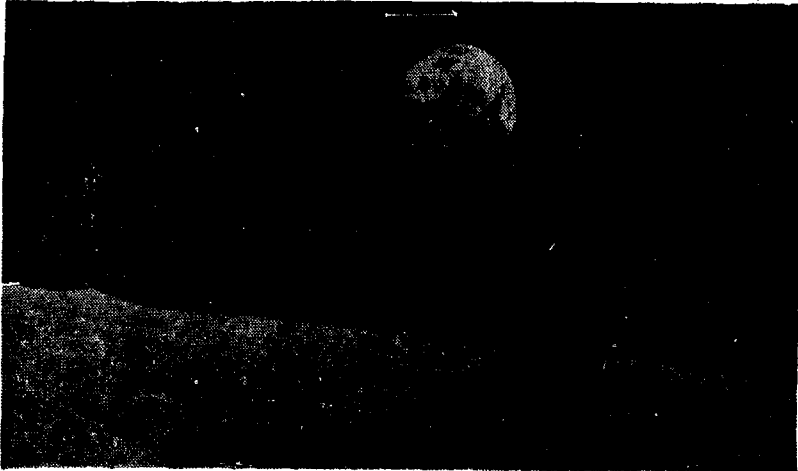

The fire was discovered around 10:30 p.m. by city police officer Sgt. Larry Bild who was on patrol on North Shore drive. Bild said he didn't see the fire but smelled smoke and found it filtering from out of the resort building.

Firemen said the fire seemed to have originated in a dining room on the second floor of the resort building. Concrete walls

Israel Condemned On All Sides For Lebanon Attack

Warn They'll Do It Again

By Associated Press

Undeterred by mounting condemnation from all sides of its commando raid on the Beirut airport, Israel on Sunday promised further retaliation for Arab attacks.

Premier Levi Eshkol declared that Israel will defend itself against aggression "in the place where it is planned and carried out."

"States which make it possible for the terror organizations to organize and perpetrate acts of terror bear the responsibility for aggression, a responsibility which they cannot disclaim," he said.

Eshkol and Israel's ambassador to the United Nations, Shabtai Rosenne, said Saturday's raid was in retaliation for the Arab terrorist attack on an El Al airliner at Athens airport Thursday. Greek authorities are holding two Palestinian guerrillas who lived in Lebanon for the grenade and automatic rifle attack on the plane, which killed one Israeli passenger.

U.N. MEETING

The U.N. Security Council met in urgent session Sunday night and appeared headed for a vote condemning Israel at another meeting tonight. U.S. Ambassador J.R. Wiggins told the council his government "strongly condemns the attack" and "is prepared to support prompt action by the Security Council to condemn this latest Israeli action."

The U.S. ambassador to Lebanon, Dwight Porter, called on Lebanese Premier Abdullah Yafi to discuss how the United States could help Lebanon "restore its commercial air fleet," the embassy announced.

There was no indication, however, that the United States would go back on its agreement to deliver 50 Phantom jet fighters to Israel.

Helicopter-borne Israeli commandos destroyed 13 Lebanese cargo and passenger planes, more than half the country's civil airline fleet, in the 45-minute raid Saturday night. They first cleared the parked planes of passengers. One casualty was reported, a guard who was wounded slightly.

INSPECT DAMAGE

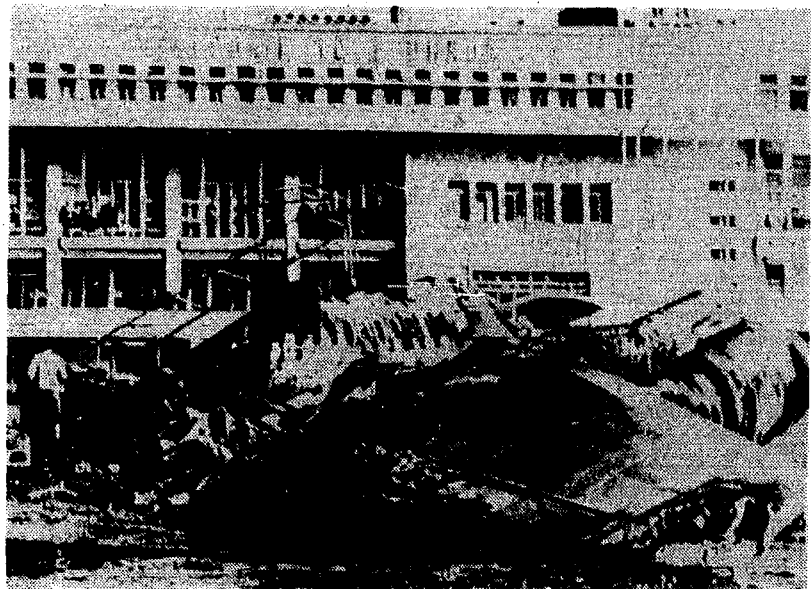

On Sunday, 12 hours after the raid, two Israeli jets flew over the airport to inspect the still-smoldering debris. Lebanese troops dove for cover, and the planes made two low passes and flew off unchallenged by anti-aircraft batteries or fighter planes based 40 miles away.

Lebanon claimed the destroyed aircraft were worth more than $50 million, and Arab and Soviet bloc countries at the Security Council meeting demanded that Israel be required to pay compensation.

Soviet Ambassador Jacob A. Malik told the council that Israel should be held responsible.

Furnace Fumes Kill Dowagiac Man

DOWAGIAC — A rural Dowagiac man died Sunday of carbon monoxide poisoning from a defective furnace and three children staying with him overnight were hospitalized. The victim was identified by Cass county sheriff's deputies as Claude Eberhart, about 62, of Glenwood, a community about ten miles northeast of Dowagiac.

Admitted to Lee Memorial hospital in Dowagiac were Richard Cheney, Jr., 15, listed in fair condition; his brother, Edward 11, and sister Sharon, 6, both reported in fairly good condition.

Parents of the children were identified by Cass County Coroner Rollo Schoff as Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cheney of 201 Cass avenue, Dowagiac. Schoff said the children were family friends of the victim and staying overnight. No other persons were in the home, he said.

Schoff, called to the scene at 3:30 p.m. Sunday, said the fumes came from a defective bottled gas type furnace. Schoff said Eberhart probably died about 9 a.m., while the children were still barely conscious.

Cass county sheriff's deputies said they were called to the home by a neighbor who found the body of the victim.

The body was taken to Newell funeral home at Decatur.

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 8 astronauts engage in the first full day of intensive de-briefing on their flight today as space officials release part of the treasure they brought back—color views unseen before of the earth and the moon.

Air Force Col. Frank Borman, Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr.

and Air Force Lt. Col. William A. Anders are set to talk into tape recorders about their half-million mile voyage around the moon and back.

The trio, meeting with flight training specialists, will go over their mission "event by event in considerable detail," a space official said. They will follow the same schedule for nine of the next 10 days, talking with groups ranging from scientists to fellow astronauts.

ALL TAKEN DOWN

Each word will be recorded, transcribed and prepared for a final report.

Their only break will come New Year's Day.

"That'll be their first day off in many, many weeks," an official said.

The astronauts arrived at 3 a.m. EST Sunday and had their first intensive de-briefing session less than 12 hours later. They were flown here from the aircraft carrier Yorktown via Hawaii. They had spent a day on the carrier after helicopters plucked them from the mid-Pacific at the end of their moon-orbiting mission.

Their spacecraft was taken to Honolulu by the Yorktown where it will undergo Navy tests before being flown to the North American Rockwell Co. plant at

Reaching For The Moon

America's latest astronaut team of Frank Borman, James Lovell, Jr., and William Anders scarcely dipped safely to a pinpoint landing from a six-day flight around the moon than Bill Rodgers, a steady contributor to our Letters column took to his typewriter to send the message that man would be better off to clean up his mess on earth before he sails off into outer space.

At least that's the interpretation we draw from his Letter published in full on this page today.

Rodgers is not the first to propose the same thought.

We've heard any number of preachers declare it, and every group with a vested interest in the federal budget has said its program could really work wonders if it could grab on to all or most of NASA's funds.

The loudest of those claimants is the fractionated Negro militant leadership, but the highway people, the schools and other lobbyists proclaim a similar missionary purpose.

Ideally, it would be fine if mankind would dissolve his earthly problems first and then, if so inclined, go on to seeing what it is like "out there."

Man has never pursued that path and unless the Almighty

Cashless Experiment

For years the Treasury Department has been having trouble keeping up with the demand for certain types of money. Not only has it had metal troubles which have resulted in utilizing cheaper compositions of metals for coins, but at least three denominations have all but disappeared from circulation.

Two dollar bills, never popularly accepted silver dollars and half dollars no longer are in general usage. The disappearance of the latter coin is a phenomenon in itself, inasmuch as hundreds of millions are minted each year.

With new mint facilities in Philadelphia, and expanded production elsewhere, the mint still has trouble at times keeping up with the demand for individual coins. The Bureau of Engraving experiences similar problems during peak trading periods in the distribution of currency.

If an experiment now under way in the Philadelphia area proves successful, an end to the Treasury's money worries may be in sight. Only in coin operated machine may it be used. A New Jersey bank, in cooperation with several large companies, has introduced by far the most ambitious cashless credit system yet devised. Under this credit card system, a merchant receives instant clearance from the customer's bank of the amount of the sale, and the customer's account is automatically updated. The sale is consummated in seconds and no cash or check change hands.

Officials of the Bell Telephone System, which is participating in the plan, see this as the first of many steps which will let central computers do much of the work man still does for himself.

"The time consuming routines of everyday living, shopping, cooking, or even making out income tax returns, could be handled quickly and effortlessly by computers linked together on the telephone network," a Bell representative predicts.

One estimate is that within two years 2,500 banks will be using similar systems. Instead of worrying about how to produce more money, the Treasury soon may be concerned about what to do with cash on hand.

Venice in the 13th century had its full share of social problems. Yet this did not cause Marco Polo to put his active mind to those questions. Rather he felt impelled to exile himself for 18 years from his homeland to establish contact with China.

Two centuries later Columbus persuaded Ferdinand and Isabella from his homeland to establish on the advantages of finding a new route to the eastern trading world over conquering the barbarous conditions under which most of their subjects subsisted.

Our own state of Michigan was colonized permanently pretty much by New York staters who gambled on meeting their difficulties, debt primarily, in a wilderness instead of battling them out back home.

People uprooted by the Civil War were responsible mainly for taming the West.

Medieval Europe launched the Crusades, ostensibly to wrest the Holy City from the Saracens without a thought to purging itself of the serfdom for most of the populace at home.

These and countless other examples show that man has an inner compulsion to launch into the unknown, either for his personal betterment or through a spirit of adventure, without regard to conditions at home, and on occasions in confession of being unable to do anything about the home front.

The rise of Christianity is an outstanding example of the latter. The Disciples made no impression whatever in the Holy Land. They scored their success across the Mediterranean.

Admittedly, it would be a millenium if the engineering genius in support of Apollo 8's great achievement could be applied to the earth's manmade turbulence.

This calls for greater self examination and stronger discipline than the human mind seems disposed to concede. History's dictatorships, even the benign ones, could not achieve it by force, and any parent trying to impart the benefit of his experience to a skeptical adolescent would probably say it never can be done.

While there may be at any point in time a consensus on what things are first and others are secondary, its prevalence is insecure and stronger minds are not even shaped to team up on doing first things first.

A Florence Nightingale, a Galileo and a George Washington could be in harmony on major principles, but they would not be constituted to act in committee upon them. Each would have to contribute separately and at varying speeds to their establishment.

The space program is a 20th counterpart of these pioneers.

In 1961 with the Cuban invasion fiasco smeared on America's face, John F. Kennedy signalled the green light for the Apollo program whose goal is to land a man on the moon by 1970.

Getting America to the moon first, he said, is less important than sharpening the technology pre-requisite to the flight; because from that development would flow other scientific achievement to keep the Stars and Stripes flying as a respected banner throughout the world.

The other course could only be to concede the scientific race to Russia or any other competitor.

Kennedy was attuned to the problems at home and did not lack for their advocates saying then what today's Letter does.

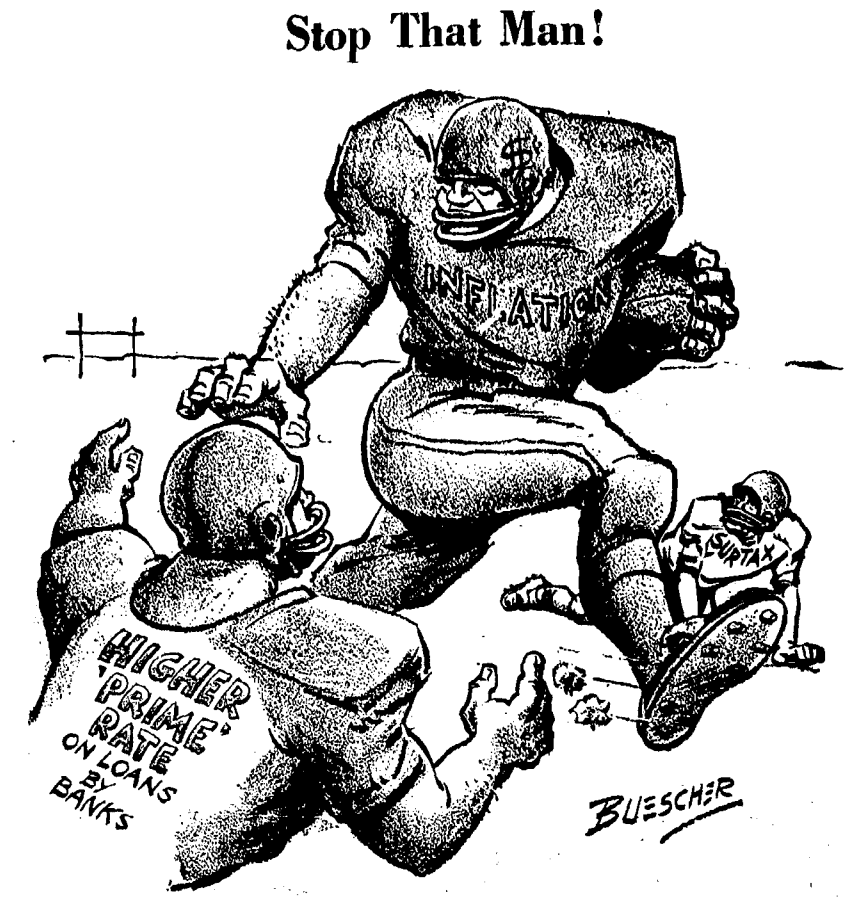

It would be wonderful if the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A. could meld their scientific capabilities, leaving each to root out their domestic difficulties which are about in parallel in their own fashion.

Kennedy, though, recognized the absence of brotherhood for what it was then and the challenge it presented to our country.

We agree the Apollo program has not and probably can not raise man to a higher ethical plane.

It is, though, keeping Uncle Sam's muscles from growing flabby.

Anything goes except biting during a boxing match in Thailand, the National Geographic says. Feet, elbows, fists, and knees fly as each fighter tries to wear out or drop his opponent within five three-minute rounds.

HARBOR PROJECT FUNDS ALLOCATED
—1 Year Ago—
The Army Corps of Engineers has allocated $200,000 to rebuild existing breakwaters and revetments at St. Joseph harbor and another $300,000 for similar work at South Haven harbor. U.S. Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich) announced the allocations Thursday along with other planned Army Corps of Engineer's projects throughout the state.

These include $50,000 to initiate preconstruction planning of a flood control project on the Grand River, Lansing; advanced planning for improvements for small craft navigation on Au Grac river to Point Lookout harbor, $25,000; a study on harbor needs at New Baltimore and Harrison township, $5,000; and improvements of the Grand Haven harbor, $3,000.

EARTH FIRST BEFORE THE MOON
There are two schools of thought relative to our attempt to conquer space to the point where we might possibly, not probably, put an Adam and Eve on the moon and thus build an empire patterned after our earthly existence. Up to the present we have had a rather close view of this far distant sphere, and enjoy the credit of being the first to get so close as to make a few observations.

The pros and cons of this fantastic venture are many. We have not arrived there as yet. Before any realistic decision can be made it will be quite essential to get there, remain there for a reasonable period and then return none the worse for wear. This is the plan. As to populating the old boy that is quite another story and a very risky gamble for the odds against it are tremendous.

In the story of Creation we read, from Genesis 1: 26 these words: "Let us make man in our image, after our likeness; and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle and over all the earth and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth." In verse 28 He said, "Be fruitful and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it; and have dominion over..." etc. (Read entire chapter.)

It seems odd that we are so interested in going to other planets when here at home we have failed so miserably to subdue our own planet and the 101 problems confronted daily. If penetrating the outer limits of our own galaxy is the plan of man here on earth one wonders if it is God's plan. If so, one also is amazed that He made no mention of other worlds or a decision for man to conquer or subdue them.

The mere fact that the moon is a dead planet promotes a question. What, if anything has it to offer man? This question will perhaps be resolved, at least partially, when we put one, two or three humans on the moon, that is, if we can do so.

However, there are grave doubts as to whether or not we can enjoy this success. As a matter of fact it is a race for supremacy by two powers who have the same thing in mind, namely "first to land a man on the moon and get him back!" After that, what comes next?

Reaching for the moon is a gesture of a discontented world, of a people frustrated by existing worldwide conditions which are the outcome of such discontent.

Are we ready for such a program of expansion?

Hardly. Not when the world of nations is wallowing in a whirlpool of greed, lust, hatred and jealousy, spilling blood and wasting its God given substance.

To reach the heights to which we aspire, the brotherhood of man, all men, must be so firmly established and cemented together that all the impossibilities will be reduced to probabilities and then become facts to enjoy by all people.

So, let us first subdue our own world by being content with that which we have so that all good things will be granted to us.

"You're a better man than I am, Gunga Din" . . . "On the road to Mandalay, where the flyin' fishes play. . ."

Those two refrains bring to mind the memory of Rudyard Kipling, one of the first English poets to exploit the Cockney dialect. With the exception of Mark Twain, no other author had been so popular in the United States at that time as Kipling.

He was born in India of English parents in 1865. At the age of six he was taken to England where he spent six unhappy years, described in "Baa Baa, Black Sheep."

In 1878 he entered the United Services College in North Devon and his experiences there later served as the basis for a novel. He returned to India at the age of 17 and landed a job at the "Civil and Military Gazette" of Lahore; the collection of verses "Departmental Ditties" (1886) and the collection of stories "Plain Tales from the Hills" were originally written from the Gazette.

Kipling returned to England and once in London he enjoyed spectacular success: all his Indian volumes were republished and he followed up quickly with "The Light that Failed," and "Barrack-Room Ballads," the collection of poems that included "Gunga Din," "Puffy Wuzzy," "Danny Deever," and "Mandalay."

Among his later works were "The Jungle Book," "Captains Courageous," "Kim," "Just So Stories," "Puck of Pook's Hill," "A Diversity of Creatures" and "Something of Myself," an autobiography left unfinished at his death.

While his life-long glorification of imperialism antagonized some critics and caused them to miss his poetic side, it has had no effect on his popularity.

DR. COLEMAN . . And Speaking Of Your Health

Is there any special age that is best for the application of braces to the teeth?

Each dental problem must necessarily be evaluated individually. There can be no universal age at which orthodontia should be started.

The word orthodontia comes from two Greek words, ortho, to straighten, and odon, teeth, meaning, of course, to straighten the teeth.

The science of Dr. Coleman orthodontia has progressed remarkably and has been responsible for the preservation of many teeth during childhood which, had they been lost, would have reflected on the dental health of adults.

The application of braces is done for irregularly spaced teeth, crooked teeth, or teeth that are bunched up and interfere with the normal growth of the jaw. Many speech defects can be traced to bad habits which, too, are evidence of some abnormal structural growth of the entire mouth.

The dental surgeon has, of course, been following the health and disease of a child's teeth. Under his constant observation, dental decay and other evidence of poor development are quickly recognized. This is the very essence of dental health. Delay only serves to invite and magnify complications.

When the dentist feels the need for the opinion of a specialist in orthodontia, he seeks that consultation at the time, irrespective of the age group. The specialist, after studying the tooth formation with X-rays and with casts, then decides if the child is ready for reconstructive work.

It is imperative that the combined wisdom of the dentist and his colleague determine the exact age to begin the work.

When that decision is arrived at, there must be no delay. Such delay can convert a simple problem into a complicated one.

Is the lie detector machine ever used for medical diagnosis?

The lie detector apparatus is called a polygraph. It is a remarkably sensitive machine whose use is based on the scientific fact that the emotions and emotional upsets can affect body functions.

The relationship between emotional stress and physical behavior is readily demonstrated by what happens when a person is embarrassed. The eyes become bright and perhaps teary, perspiration may appear on the forehead and on the lips, and a pink blush covers the face. This all happens in a fraction of a second because of the nerve relays that communicate between the eyes, the ears, the brain, and the skin.

If, at that moment of blushing, a polygraph machine had been attached to the body, it would register an immediate increase in the rate of the heart, the frequency of respiration, and change in blood pressure. The machine has a great use in criminology but is not infallible as an indication of guilt or innocence.

The polygraph is "read" by highly trained operators who can contribute vastly to medical diagnosis and to physiological disorders which must be uncovered to be treated effectively.

The bidding:
East 1♥ South 2♣
Pass 3♦ Pass 3♥
Pass 3NT

Opening lead — six of spades.

This deal occurred in the 1964 men's national team of four championship. As usual, board-a-match scoring was used. In this method of scoring, each deal is treated as a separate entity and the team with the better result is awarded one point. (In the event of a tie on the board, each team gets half a point.)

Strangely enough, when the hand was played, four notrump was made at each table — but the outcome was not a tie. This oddity came about in the following manner.

At the first table, South became declarer at three notrump on the bidding shown. Perhaps South should not have bid three notrump over three hearts (which was forcing), but he did.

West struggled mightily trying to find the right opening lead, and finally came forth with the six of spades. As a result, South wound up making four notrump for a score of 630 points.

At the second table, the bidding followed this strange course:

East 1♥ South 2♥
Pass 3♦ Pass 3NT

North decided to take his chances at notrump in the hope of finding his partner with appropriate stoppers in diamonds and spades. His strategy might have worked if his partner had had a different type of hand, but, in the actual case, North finished far behind the well known eight-ball.

East led the four of diamonds. West won with the ace and returned the six. After cashing the K-Q, East realized that the diamonds were blocked, so he shifted to the queen of spades.

West won dummy's king with the ace and returned the ten to East's jack. East then cashed all his spades (on which West discarded the blocking ten of diamonds), and the odd outcome of the affair was that East-West made four notrump for a score of 600 points.

New BH Housing Inspection Plan

Firemen To Replace Old Team

City Hires Five New Firefighters

A new Benton Harbor housing inspection bureau is ready to go to work.

City manager Don C. Stewart said the bureau would begin operation Wednesday. It will replace a two-man team which has been carrying out the inspection through the building department.

Under the new plan, five veteran firemen are to become inspectors working under fire marshal Capt. Richard Nichols. They will give up fire-fighting duties to work at the inspections fulltime on a five-day, 40-hour week basis.

Because of the shift, five new firemen have been hired to keep the department at full strength.

The inspectors will receive $6,890 yearly, a $468 boost for all but one who now receives this amount because of his rank.

The inspectors will be James Stevens Jr., James Collis, Lt. Robert Jones, Ralph Moore and James Means.

Hired as beginning firemen are Clarence Liles, Ray C. Mitten, William Kloppe, William Smith and Douglas Briney.

Stewart said the new bureau was created because more inspections are needed to meet requirements of the federal urban renewal project.

Reapproval of the city's workable program was questioned by the federal approving agency, said Stewart, because of the inspection question as well as provisions of low-rent housing.

The reapproval is needed yearly so that renewal funds are continued.

Stewart said the fire department was tapped to provide the new bureau because of the experience firemen have had in meeting the public and in a fire prevention inspection program.

The bureau will enforce the city's recently adopted minimum housing code and will be allowed to act against negligent owners without first taking the case to the city commission.

Stewart said the inspector will notify owners of the pending inspection and give them a report of findings immediately. The owners would have 30 days or more to correct any deficiencies or at least make an honest effort to carry them out.

The commission, in adopting the 1968-69 city budget, added enough funds to the present inspection operation for increasing the force to five. But, the plan was shelved when firemen agreed to take part in the new bureau.

The fire chief will be in general charge of the new bureau and will incorporate its funding in his yearly budget.

Of the five inspectors, Moore has been with the department longest. He joined the department June 26, 1944. He lives at 1019 State street, St. Joseph. He and his wife, Virginia, have three children.

Stevens, Jones and Means all joined the department in 1957. Stevens and his wife, Ann, have one daughter. The family lives at 524 Sherman court, Benton Harbor.

Bride's Brother Definitely Identified As Crash Victim

A Denver, Colo. man killed Friday night in the crash of a North Central Airlines flight at Chicago's O'Hare field has been positively identified as Daniel J. Petersen, 34, who was enroute to Benton Harbor to take part in his sister's wedding.

Relatives of the victim went to Chicago Sunday to identify the body. The victim had originally been identified as O. J. Petersen of Denver, Colo., by the airlines. He was one of 26 persons who died when the plane, attempting to land in a heavy mist, slammed into a hangar and exploded in flames.

Twenty-seven others were injured.

Petersen, a representative of a laboratory firm based in Morton Grove, Ill., had boarded the plane in Green Bay, Wis. He was scheduled to arrive here Saturday morning to escort his sister, Madelon Lenore Petersen, to the altar.

The wedding of Miss Petersen and John D. Bittner, of 1823 Lombard street, took place at noon in the St. Joseph Catholic church.

MAY SHOW CAUSE

George Green, head of a 40-man team investigating the crash, said in Chicago today that flight recorder from the plane had been sent to Washington, D.C. and would be ready for public disclosure in a few days.

The tape will show whether the pilot was properly aligned with the runway before the crash, Green said.

Green, head of the Chicago office of the safety board, said the tape gives the plane's heading, air speed, altitude and gravity forces.

John F. Wubbolding of the FAA said Sunday that the south-east-northwest runway on which the plane was trying to land was shut down for a check shortly after the crash and that electronic navigational equipment was found to be operating properly.

Here is a revised list of the confirmed dead in the crash:

1. Marvin A. Payne, Lakeland, Minn., pilot.
2. Gerald R. LeValley, Bloomington, Minn., first officer.
3. Richard W. Kargel, Prior Lake, Minn., a NCA off-duty flight officer.
4. Douglas Hanot, 1220 Marquette, Green Bay, Wis.
5. Mr. D. Johnson, 5737 N. Shoreland Ave., Milwaukee.
6. Fred Johnson Jr., 5737 N.

JOE WELCH Tells of Robbery

Gas Station Is Robbed-- Eighth Time

Holdup Losses Total $1,500 In 15 Months

The Checker service station at 928 Territorial road was reported robbed last night for the eighth time in 15 months.

Operator Raymond Dinges, who was called to the station after $65 was reported taken, said so far he had lost $1,500 in the robberies.

"I just don't know," said Dinges. "We never get any of the money back and it is not refunded by the (parent) company."

Dinges took over the station in September, 1967, a month after it was opened. He said it was hit twice three months later and five times since, not counting last night.

Joe Welche, 18, who was the attendant on duty, told Benton township police that about 8 p.m. a lone man had walked into the station and pulled a gun on him after asking for a pack of cigarettes.

Welche said he gave the man about $40 in bills from his shirt pocket and scooped $25 in change from a drawer into a paper bag which the man thrust at him.

"When I turned around with the cigarettes," said Welche, "he pulled the gun and said this is a stickup."

"After I gave him the bills, he told me to open the safe, but I told him I didn't have the key," Welche stated. "Then he gave me the bag and told me to put all the money I had into it."

Welche said the man had not been wearing a mask when he first entered the station, but he said he had pulled one over his face while he was getting the cigarettes.

The attendant described the man as Negro, about 18-22 years old, and wearing a dark green or black knee length coat.

Welche said he was just about to put money into the safe when he saw the man walking toward the station.

"At first I thought he was going to an outside pop vending machine," commented Welche, "but then he came in here."

Officers Raymond Peters and Robert Shepherdson said they found a set of fresh footprints in the snow leading to and from the station. They also found a set of fresh tire marks in the rear of a nearby used car lot.

The Point Swings With Music Of 32nd Annual Cotillion

BY HELEN BAKER
Women's Editor

For the second night in a row, Point O'Woods country club resounded to music—electronic and otherwise—and to dancing feet, when the 32nd annual Christmas Cotillion was held Saturday.

Some of the Cotillion committee referred to the music as AM and FM—AM standing for adult music and the FM presumably for the younger crowd. Saturday night Piper's Alley, a six-person rock band, formerly called the Firebirds, played for the young, and Ed Cullinan's band for the not-so-young.

One hundred and 50 guests were served a buffet dinner from a long table adorned with white candles in silver candelabra and with azaleas. Squatty candle cups, lemon leaves, oranges and lemons decorated the length of the long dining tables. Overhead the lights sparkled in the canopy of white-sprayed branches, but the side fixtures Saturday were decorated with white azaleas. In the cove room pale pink, pale orange and white balloons were festooned along the walls and suspended from the ceilings, to be let loose at the close of the party and taken as favors by the young guests. Among the guests were these from out-of-town: Mrs. Arthur C. Green—a guest in the Robert Upton home, 500 Ridgeway, St. Joseph, and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Carnes of Mexico City who were Cotillion guests of the Richard Globenskys.

Co-chairmen of the decorations committee were Mrs. Philip Brown and Mrs. Richard Globensky, assisted by Mrs. Edward Hoffman and Mrs. Lester Tiscornia. The dinner and reservation arrangements were made by Mrs. A.K. Gast, chairman, and her committee comprised of Mrs. Lawrence B. Sizer, Mrs. John Platts and Mrs. Elsie Gray.

Mrs. Sheldon Lee, assisted by Mrs. W.B. Carver and Mrs. John Globensky were in charge of the punch and cloak and coke room. Hospitality was the responsibility of Mrs. W.A. Thomas and her assistants, Mrs. Vance Fisher, Mrs. Chester Byrns and Mrs. Lyle Witte.

Mrs. Frederic Groenlandt and Mrs. Harold Benning arranged for the dinner music. The membership duties were taken care of by Mrs. Robert Upton and Mrs. L.M. Shepard.

Mrs. John Parrett organized the march and selected the favors with the help of Mrs. Marion Morrisett, Mrs. Stephen Upton and Mrs. William Campbell. Dance music was procured by Mrs. D.F. Upton and Mrs. W.K. Emery, and Mrs. George Gast and Mrs. W.T. Watt were responsible for invitations and charter members. The invitation clearing house was handled by Mrs. Elden Butzbaugh and Mrs. Victor Palenske. Mrs. Richard Insley and Mrs. Frederick S. Upton were the publicity committee.

Cotillion officers this year were Mrs. Thomas Preston, chairman; Mrs. Robert Upton, co-chairman; Mrs. Stephen Upton, secretary; Mrs. George Gast, treasurer; Mrs. Richard Insley, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Harry Ross, historian.

In addition to these women and their husbands, the host group included the Rev. H. Stewart Ross, Dr. and Mrs. A.F. Bleisner, Mr. and Mrs. James Boothby, the A. Edwards Browns, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moulton Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Ross L. Gilmore, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Laity, Dr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Rahn, and Dr. and Mrs. Leo M. Globensky.

SANILAC HIT HARD Power In Some Areas Still Out

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Hundred of Lower Michigan families remained without power and telephone service Sunday night as utility workers sought to repair downed lines in the wake of a severe ice storm that swept the area over the weekend.

Many Sanilac County residents faced another night with no electricity, heat or water, and Detroit Edison said it expected crews to be on the job through the night to repair hundreds of isolated circuits serving Brown City and Minden.

Many electrical circuits in Tuscola, St. Clair and Sanilac counties were not expected to be repaired until early today.

Sanilac County telephone service was hardest hit by the ice on wires in Snover, where 200 families reported loss of service.

Consumers Power Co. reported a 46,000-volt transmission line had been knocked out near Ashley, cutting off electrical power to about 900 customers. Altogether, about 24,000 customers suffered electrical power disruptions for varying periods.

The utility said it hoped crews would have all service restored to 1,500 customers in Saginaw and 1,000 in Flint who still lacked electricity late Sunday afternoon.

Detroit Edison reported heavy damage in the Thumb area. Around Lapeer, eight substations were knocked out by the storm at varying times.

Icy roads in many areas prevented crews from getting to the damage until late Sunday. Wind prevented salting of roads in the Thumb area, adding to the chaos.
